Still from „Little Girl“ (Official Music Video)

Short Description

The music video for Little Girl visually reflects the song’s central message. At its core is the exploration of one’s younger self and the relationship between past and present.

Throughout the song, Jasmin F. appears in different layers of memory and self-reflection. Standing in front of a mirror, she gradually removes her makeup while directing her singing toward her own reflection. At the same time, abstract color projections represent the changing influences and inner thoughts that shape her experience.

This visual layer is complemented by private smartphone footage from her childhood. These memories capture both challenging and carefree moments, weaving together past and present into a shared narrative.

At the end of the song, Jasmin F. faces her reflection one final time. After a brief moment of silence, she breaks away from it and turns directly toward the camera, creating a deliberate transition from self-reflection to the present moment.
